Artist: Sam McDowell

This pocket knife with a scrimshawed oceanic scene of pod of orca whales is beautiful as well as useful. The Schooner and Lighthouse knife name comes from the detailed nickel silver metal engraving on the hinge of the knife. Fancy filework is on the beautiful gleaming blade. It is a sailors favorite lanyard shackle and will be popular on any waterfront. this knife measures 3" closed and 5" open. The other utility blades with this knife are a nailfile and scissors.
